Summarized General Certificate of Conformity

for the Mott Media Publications listed below

Revised February 5, 2009

We have confirmed through supplier verification (where possible) and through individual testing by a CPSC approved laboratory that the Mott Media publications listed below contain:

Less than 80 ppm of Lead-Content

Please Note:

Section 106 and Section 108 of the CPSIA bans phthalates from “Children’s Toys” or “Child Care Articles.” These regulations do not apply to books that don’t have any inherent play value. This is further confirmed in a letter from Ms. Cheryl A. Falvey, the Acting Director of the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission to Mr. Allan R. Adler of the Association of American Publishers dated December 23, 2008.

- Less than 1,000 ppm of the Phthalates (tha-lates) DEHP, DBP, or BBP. CPSA, CPSIA, ASTM F963, February 10, 2009. Applies to “Children’s Toys” or “Child Care Articles.”
- Less than 1,000 ppm of the Phthalates (tha-lates) DINP, DIDP, or DnOP. CPSA, CPSIA, ASTM F963, February 10, 2009. Applies to “Children’s Toys” or “Child Care Articles” and is listed as “Interim Prohibition”

Please Note:

None of Mott Media’s products contain any “Paint” so that the 90 ppm regulation for Lead-In-Paint does not apply. However our Third-Party testing confirms that there is “Less Than 80 ppm Lead-Content” in any of our products. These products probably have much less than 80 ppm lead-content but the less than 80 ppm is due to the limitation of the testing method. However the testing method is in compliance with the requirements of the CPSC.

This is in full compliance with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Improvement Act of 2008, (CPSIA, 16 C.F.R Part 1303). This act includes a progressive lowering of acceptable lead content and lead-in-paint for products manufactured for the use by children up to 12 years old. The lowest and final level for lead-in-paint is 90 ppm and for lead-content is 100 ppm that goes into effect in August of 2011. The products listed below conform to these limits.
